

Figure 2. Consequences of Uniparental Disomy (UPD)

The DNA methylation states of upstream CpG islands are indicated by pink circles when methylated and open circles when unmethylated. The DNA methylation state affects the expression of its downstream gene. Maternally inherited alleles are doubled (gene B); whereas those that are on the paternal alleles are lost (gene A).